I read most of the book Caring Science as Sacred Science, and then saw Jean Watson speaking at the most recent AHNA conference. The book is dense, and in my opinion, not as clearly presented as it might be. Still, it's full of interesting ideas.

Watson's Caring Science as Sacred Science - Research ...

Watson's evolution from the original textbook, Philosophy and Science of Caring (1979) to Caring Science as Sacred Science (2005), was guided by Levinas' (1969) Ethic of Belonging as a starting point for science; thus, we all belong to the cosmic infinite field of universal love. In this model of caring science, ethics of belonging comes before ontology of being and serves as a starting point for the caring science disciplinary lens, thus informing/critiquing ontology, epistemology ...
